MORGAN WALLEN

Between platinum-certified No. 1 summer smash “Up Down,” featuring Florida Georgia Line and his Top 25 single “Whiskey Glasses” burning up the charts, Morgan Wallen has burst onto the scene as a dynamite solo artist and in-demand songwriter.

Wallen’s debut album “If I Know Me” premiered in April 2018, and was soon after named one of Taste of Country’s Top 10 Country Albums of 2018.

He has co-penned hits for a Thousand Horses, Dustin Lynch, Kane Brown, and Jason Aldean.

In January, Wallen launched his headline “If I Know Me” tour with a sold-out show at Joe’s Live in Chicago. In June, he will join multi-platinum duo Florida Georgia Line on their 2019 tour, stopping in Elkhart County for a one-night performance with singer/songwriter Riley Green on the grandstand stage.

RILEY GREEN

Born in Jacksonville, Alabama, Riley Green was raised on the sounds of old traditional country, bluegrass, and southern gospel music. He learned the spirit of songwriting and performing at a young age while spending time with his grandfather, Bufford Green, who ran Golden Saw Music Hall.

With a mixture of outlaw-rebellion and respect for tradition, Green’s original music has already tallied over 51 million streams to date. Currently on his headlining “Outlaws Like Us” tour, Green has traveled the southeast for the last five years while growing his loyal fanbase on social media. His recently released EP features four songs he co-wrote: “There Was This Girl,” “Same Old Song,” “Break Up More Often,” and “In A Truck Right Now.”

Green will join solo artist Morgan Wallen for a Tuesday night performance on the grandstand stage.
